My skills accumulated during a 20-year blended career of Intelligence Analysis and Human Services would allow me to contribute immediately to an organization. I conducted Intelligence Operations for 10-years in support of personnel operating in; Mediterranean Sea, Red Sea, Arabian Gulf, Indian Ocean, Iraq and Afghanistan. I utilized GIS system to supply maritime, aeronautical, geographical, imagery, geological updates, analysis and dissemination of information to operators. I have independently maintained a secured chart vault and publication library. I worked on a Counter-Terrorism Database, applying a multidisciplinary approach in support of deployed military units. My degree in Psychology has afforded me the flexibility to provide quality performance in varied job environments. More important, it brought a human element to my professional skills. I improved my own interpersonal skills by empathetically assisting individuals struggling with difficult life issues. While working in Human Services, I have gathered skills that translate well into a varied position. I have extensively employed statistical methods, tracked and analyzed data, drafted treatment plans and completed detail evaluations.
